

Tim Clark

Comedian and Writer

Tim Clark has been a comedian and writer for more than thirty years.

In addition to working all over the world on the live stand up circuit at comedy clubs and corporate events, he is also in demand as a writer.

Whether for a script, speech, presentation, or performance, Tim can tailor his writing to your requirements, work with you on material or – more simply – just put a few gags into your project.

The service Tim provides is bespoke. He is professional, accommodating, respectful of deadlines and of any travel that may be required.

As an example of the process:-

- 1) Tim would meet with you to discuss your requirements, timeframe and gain source material.
- 2) Tim would write the material.
- 3) Tim would then meet with you again to discuss any editing which might be required and guidance on delivery of the material.

As a scriptwriter Tim has previously penned comedy plays for BBC Radio 4 and Ch4.

He has also written comedy material for (amongst others) Jonathan Ross, Phil Jupitus and Mark Lamarr.

As a speechwriter he has worked for the late Graham Taylor (former England Football Manager), Gordon Brown, Ian Riddock (footballer) as well as for various Sky TV presenters.

Corporate clients have included: Bupa, Barclays Bank, BT and British American Tobacco (for whom he wrote - and also performed - a subject specific set)

If you would like to make an Enquiry about working with Tim, do get in contact via:

Sarah Higgins (Artist Manager) - ✉ SourceOfHumour@gmail.com - ☎ 07798627003